- 25X1 1. The mast and aerial of a transmitter station can be seen on the left side of the road when leaving Prague in the direction of Strasnice on streetcar No. 11 or 16. The streetcar stop nearest the station is U Vozovny, one stop beyond the new crematory. Both buildings of the transmitter 25X1 station are single story
2. The transmitter station building at Pobebrady is a single story structure.
The main hall is very large with a glazed tile floor. In the left wing are the transmitters. The high frequency rectifier tubes are located in the basement under the wing. There are one old and several very modern transmitters at the station. Power from the very high frequency transmitter is led to the aerials by means of screened feeders in pipes about seven inches in diameter. Transmitters are modulated from Prague. It is impossible to trace the lines as telephone cables are underground. The station is surrounded by lawn and a wire fence. The installation covers an area about 150 m. by 200 m.
